Totally supported by volunteers, it continues to support the St Patrick Mission. We do need a few more volunteers so we can continue to provide needed services to our clients.

Food Pantry hours are Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 1:00- 2:30.

Heavy lifting is not required - just handing out bags of food to those in need. Just an hour and a half a week!

St. Patrick's Single Moms,

My name is Rosalyn Bridges, and I am a Doctoral Student at The University of Southern California; however, I live in Memphis. I have a project that addresses a global social problem that would be perfect for us to take on and help solve, beginning right here at St. Patrick's. This unique program will focus on early prevention training for a topic that is difficult for us moms to talk about: Child Sexual Abuse.

We will learn valuable skills to engage in open, age-appropriate conversations, increasing their safety even when we're not by their sides. We will explore practical ways to initiate everyday conversations with our children, where they feel comfortable sharing their thoughts and experiences. The goal is to empower us with the tools to navigate these crucial discussions. Together, we can create an inviting, non-judgmental, supportive network where every mother feels confident in her ability to protect her child from potential harm.

I am very excited about collaborating with 6-8 single mothers with children from birth to 5 years of age. If you are interested, an initial meeting will be held on 2/18/24 at 12:15 in the Braganza Room at the Outreach Center. Please contact St. Patrick's office at 901-527-2542 and leave your name and number if you plan to attend.

Warm Regards,
Rosalyn Bridges, MSW

ST. PATRICK PARISH CELEBRATES BLACK HISTORY

Regina Marcia Benjamin (b1956)

Regina Benjamin served as the 18th U.S. surgeon general from 2009 to 2013, appointed by President Barack Obama. Prior to her tenure as the nation's physician, she practiced as a country doctor in rural Alabama. As founder and CEO of the rural Bayou Clinic in Bayou La Batre, Dr. Regina Benjamin is making a difference to the underserved poor in a small fishing village on the Gulf Coast of Alabama. Since 2013, she also has served as the chair of Public Health Sciences at Xavier University in New Orleans, LA. When her clinic was reduced to rubble by Hurricane Georges in 1998, Dr. Benjamin rolled up her sleeves and helped rebuild it, and continued to serve her patients by making house calls in her 1988 Ford pickup. As she explains her motivation, "I hope I make a difference one person at a time. By making a patient feel better, by being able to tell a mother that her baby is going to be okay. Whether her baby is four or forty-four the look on the mother's face is the same. I also hope that I am making a difference in my community by providing a clinic where patients can come and receive health care with dignity." She served on the American Medical Association's Women in Medicine Panel from 1986 to 1987, and was president of the American Medical Association Education and Research Foundation from 1997 to 1998. As president of the Medical Association of the State of Alabama, she was the first African American woman president of a state medical society in the United States. While providing primary medical care to the poor, she also spent four to six hours a week supervising medical students from the University of Alabama and USA College of Medicine in their rural and/or family medicine rotations at the Bayou La Batre Rural Health Clinic. From 2000 to 2001, she was responsible for the USA Telemedicine distance learning program, which offers medical education and specialty health care to patients and clinicians in rural and medically underserved areas through a private telecommunications network. In 2009, President Barack Obama appointed Dr. Benjamin the 18th Surgeon General of the United States.

Charles Drew (1904-1950)

"Father of the Blood Bank", Charles Drew was a renowned surgeon and pioneer in the preservation of life-saving blood plasma. His research and developments saved thousands of lives and innovated the nation's blood banking process while standardizing procedures for long-term blood preservation and storage techniques. Drew's thesis, "Banked Blood: A Study in Blood Preservation" made him the first African American to earn a medical doctorate from Columbia. Among his innovations were "bloodmobiles" — mobile blood donation trucks with refrigerators. Ironically, the Red Cross excluded African Americans from donating blood, making Drew himself ineligible to participate in the very program he established. The policy was later modified, however the institution upheld racial segregation of blood which Drew openly criticized as "unscientific and insulting to African Americans". In October 1941, Drew returned to Howard University, where he remained for the next nine years serving as Head of the Department of Surgery and Chief of Surgery at Freedmen's Hospital. His mission was to "train young African American surgeons who would meet the most rigorous standards in any surgical specialty" and "place them in strategic positions throughout the country where they could, in turn, nurture the tradition of excellence." This he believed would be his "greatest and most lasting contribution to medicine." He also campaigned against the exclusion of black physicians from local medical societies, medical specialty organizations, and the American Medical Association.

Go Out and Tell the Good News Question of the Week:

Though Black Americans make up 13% of the U.S. population, they represent only 5% of physicians. How does that lack of diversity in the physician workforce impact patients' health and well-being?

Reflections from a St. Patrick Parishioner

Happy 2024 to all of our St. Patrick community and beyond! We are starting a faith encouragement series wherein community members share reflections on the weekly readings, feast days, and more. We are excited to continue this series with a piece by our own Shannon Curtis.

Do you believe everything you hear?

The readings this week are a rollercoaster.

First, we have Job. Poor guy is really in his feelings about what he has been through, and all does not seem well. “Remember that my life is like the wind; I shall not see happiness again.” Listen, man, I get it. I think we’ve all felt like we’ve gone through days, weeks, and yes, months of misery. Did we all get a little Pandemic-flavored existential dread when we had that snow-storm a couple of weeks ago?

Psalms 147 offers us relief by reminding us that our God is the one who heals the brokenhearted. The dispersed will be gathered; what is broken will be rebuilt; there is justice. There is evidence of this work in the stories of the scripture. I trust in God to do all these things. But how will I know when it is happening? I find myself back down here with Job, lying on the floor, pondering the depths of despair.

In the Epistle, we have Paul coming in with all his privilege and gusto. He says he’s not boasting about what a mission he’s on to convert and preach the Gospel. But he kind of is, right? I feel like he’s saying, “What a great day to be alive! I get to let the lowly know the Good News! And through this, I accomplish my own salvation!” For me, it’s almost never Paul’s words that make him convincing. It’s his experiences that reveal how he lived the Gospel.

Thank God, in the Gospel according to Mark, we meet up with Jesus and he fulfills these promises we hear in the Old Testament readings. He cures Simon’s mother-in-law and then the rest of the town. And how does the mother-in-law react? She helps out! Jesus enters the stretch of his ministry at the heart of which is preaching and healing. We see Jesus acting (healing, miracles, engaging in conversation, etc.) more than we hear him standing alone and preaching.

Again, the power of God is in what God does, not in what we (even prophets!) say God can or will do. We can also make this direct connection to ourselves. In his letter, James, reiterates that it is our work and our faith that put us on The Path (James 2:26).

When I was in Ireland last week, I took a train to Kildare, the home of many sacred sites of our unofficial co-patron St. Brigid (whose Feast Day was Feb. 1). Whereas her Irish co-patron, St. Patrick is known for his preaching (ok, and the snakes, of course), St. Brigid was, if anything, a woman of action. From giving up her family’s own food to feed others to founding monasteries and a school of arts, Brigid modeled what it means to be a Christian by helping others. It was her actions and accomplishments, how she lived her life, and the visible reality of her faith, that led people to conversion.

So let us remember, that to love and serve God is to love and serve outside of ourselves. Dark moments, misery, struggles, doubt— all these things are natural and will find us (often) in our lives. It’s how we act and react that brings us closer to God and salvation.

PARISH NEWS

Are You Called to Serve on the Parish Pastoral Council?

The election of Parish Pastoral Council members is coming up on Sunday, March 17, with four positions open for the 2024-25 year. We know that the Holy Spirit will direct new leaders to step forward—could that be YOU?

The Parish Pastoral Council exists to provide pastoral care for the parish through living out the mission of St. Patrick Catholic Church: to proclaim and live the Gospel; to find ways to offer love, healing, and reconciliation to our community; to pray together, celebrate together, and act for justice together. We invite you to discern if you are called to live out our mission in this leadership role. Members of the Parish Pastoral Council are expected to:

Be registered and active members of St. Patrick Catholic Church;

Be dedicated to prayer and service;

Engage in regular faith formation activities;

Be familiar with the St. Patrick community and demonstrate awareness of its strengths and its needs;

Attend all meetings of the Pastoral Council;

Prepare for meetings and contribute to the work of the Pastoral Council, beyond scheduled meeting times;

Work with other teams of parishioners on pastoral planning and ministry;

Proactively communicate with the pastor and members of the St. Patrick community about the work of the Council

If this sounds like a ministry the Holy Spirit is asking of you, we invite you to write a letter to the community (one page or less) stating your interest. Let us know something about how your faith journey led you to St. Patrick Church, your hopes for the community, any experience you have in parish ministry and leadership, and the gifts you want to put at the service of our parish.
