Prayer for Ukraine

Mother of God, to your Immaculate Heart we entrust and dedicate all humanity, the Church, and all believers, especially Russia and Ukraine. Please intercede amidst our human weaknesses. Rain down compassion and offer forgiveness to Putin and Russian leaders for their crimes against humanity. Give them hearts of mercy for a peaceful end to this unjust war. Ease the suffering of the Ukrainian people, banish all evil, and light this inconceivable darkness with your unconditional love. Amen

PARISH NEWS

Began morning prayers. Ascension. Sudden copious tears...Found myself yelling at Jesus, "Don't leave! Please! Don't leave!"

I love Lent through the whole of the Easter season. I can read all about Jesus, the long story of His ministry, misery and community. As Catholic, I relish and roil in those 40 days of suffering. Love all that suffering! We have, each one: baby, child, teen, young adult, middle-aged adult, elderly adult have had suffering a'plenty. The journey is inevitable pain. The crucifixion is excruciating intentionally inflicted pain to death. The Resurrection is joy in the revealed unexpected presence. Jesus, finally, the Christ, risen. Beautiful to behold after all that!

Look at what the apostles and gathered community, Jews and Gentiles, women and men, married, unmarried, widowed, children and orphaned alike, did with all that pain. Throughout Acts, the building of community from the gathered "haves and have nots" in dialogue wrestling with God and each other to all are equal.

It's that hard part, the justice part, that the Acts community wrestled. Jesus's love informed the contemplation, dialogue, community and just action that the community raised to being. That wrestling in faithfulness to the teaching of the disciples, the breaking of the bread, and prayer gave intention to the community to live together, share their belongings, sell their property to distribute the proceeds according to need. (Acts 2:42-47) That wrestling heeded the outrage and voice of the widowed Hellenistic over the imbalance in the daily distribution of food. The disciples listened and appointed seven to attend to the community, so that their prayer and preaching would continue. (Acts 6:1-4) That wrestling had Peter say to Cornelius, "Get up! I myself am also a human being...In truth, I see that God shows no partiality." All were baptized in the name of Jesus Christ. (Acts 10:25-26, 34-35, 44-48 Last week's first reading)

It is why we gather as Catholic Christians our spiritual ritual life in Him that we are imbued with the journey and that journey is from struggle to love to justice. All of us equal. As Catholic Christians, we do the giving up love that Jesus gave us with ease. Not at the other end of the soup ladle, but with "More Than A Meal" praying together and sitting down for a meal together. Not with segregated schools, but with the founding of a segregated Catholic school, St. Augustine, in the Deep South Memphis with new books and desks (unheard of) for Negroes in 1937 and the Sister Thea Bowman Montessori School grounded by the Catechesis of the Good Shepherd in 38126 for the children of Foote Park and St. Patrick in 2025. Not with "All Are Welcome," but with our then Bishop's invitation to LGBTQ+ persons, family and friends to the Cathedral.

Jesus must go. We've got this. Who is not here, not seen, not heard, not hearing and not known? It is ordinary, St. Patrick. We work to find them. What is the work unattended, neglected, reinterpreted, and unavailable? It is ordinary, St. Patrick. As a community of prayer, contemplation, dialogue, consensus and action, "we make a way out of no way" and "work it until we work it!" The people of St. Patrick community of Acts, let's get busy.

The Trenches of Motherhood

by Angelica Rendek

A few weeks ago, I was at St Pats working, as usual. I was recording practice tracks for the choir when suddenly Gloria became fussy. It was about time for a nap but she was fighting sleep. Frustrated and overwhelmed, we went into the family room. I held her in my arms and rocked her as she closed her tear filled eyes, Myself, also on the verge of tears. In those moments I think about Mary. I wonder if baby Jesus was ever overtired and restless. Mary KNEW that she would birth the son of God but like many of us, she had to adjust to the rawness that comes with growing, birthing, and caring for a human.

This experience has been happening since the dawn of time. Many of the worries and emotions have been carried across generations. In pregnancy, it can be difficult to trust your body. You grow overly aware and any little twitch can bring caution. Now imagine that feeling, but you're growing the Messiah. We'll never know what her pregnancy cravings were or if she had morning sickness, but there are two things that I'm sure of. I'm sure that Mary's dream birth was not in a manger and I'm sure of the feeling of pure ecstasy that she experienced the first time she held baby Jesus. Not because he was the savior of the world, but because he was her baby. Jesus is the light for all of us, religiously. But many know the light of their child, Mary knew.

Like Mary, I am now in the trenches of motherhood. Together, Gloria and I are trying to figure it all out and it gives me comfort and patience to know that Mary was there too. She knew what it was like to constantly check to make sure Jesus was still breathing, she was familiar with the panicky feeling of Jesus crying, she held him and rocked. Even through the challenging moments, Mary knew that love overpowers the difficulty. As I figure out motherhood, I'm met with the beautiful moments of baby's first smile or their first belly laugh. It's a wild bond and Mary and Jesus had it too! Wonderfully, Mary is also our mother and we are all called to share in her warm embrace daily in whatever way we can!

On the stained glass window, on the wall near the piano, there is an image of Mary. She is holding Jesus in that tight embrace as they flee from their homeland. Jesus gazes at her, feeling safe in his mother's arms. But, you can see the deep worry in her eyes. Partly because he's the son of God but mostly because he is her baby. Any of us would also have a grip so tight to keep our babies out of harm. Unfortunately, many mothers are currently in similar shoes. They flee for safety with their babies held tight, navigating physical and mental trenches. We must pray for them, especially today.

Cease fire now.
